NORTH-WEST FISHERIES

The "Blue Books" as the official annual reports of the various departments of the government are named, are not so generally read and studied as they should be, for they contain much information on matters of importance, and about which anyone taking the interest that a citizen ought in the conduct of the affairs of the country in which he lives should consider his duty to inform himself. Probably one of the very best of these reports is that a northwestern would think of studying is that of the department of marine and fisheries. It is the common opinion that this department is not connected very intimately with northwestern interests, for very few people really are yet realizing what a very valuable asset this great Dominion of ours possesses in the fisheries of the western and northern territories, those who do realize it are apt to think and say that the government are slow to recognize these interests, and are not taking adequate steps to develop and protect them. However true this may have been in the days gone by, that our conservative friends like to look back on and seem so deeply to regret, an impartial critic can not change the present administration with neglect in protecting and improving the fisheries of the Northwest, after a perusal of the report of the department of marine and fisheries, just issued for the year 1921. That more steps have not been taken, to fulfill the wishes of some of our citizens in introducing new varieties of fish into our northwestern lakes, has not been for the reason that experience has shown that it is well to make haste slowly—and that in a new country like this where the conditions in the waters of the lakes and rivers are as yet practically unknown, it would be unwise to introduce, at great expense, varieties of fish that might be quite unsuitable. The matter is, however, receiving the careful attention of the expert officers of the government.

A special paper by Professor E. E. Prince, Dominion Commissioner of Fisheries on fish culture, published in the report, says under consideration, regarding much that is of interest to all taking an interest in the subject, created of and of special interest to those who wish to see some effort made to introduce into our northwestern waters some of the game fishes of the east. Some extracts from the paper will be of interest to many of our readers.

On the subject of brook trout, the professor has the following remarks: "It is a mistake to introduce brook trout into lakes which already contain abundant, unless such lakes be of great extent, and contain considerable depths. In our Northwest Territories, where fish have a very special value, a value hardly to be paralleled in other provinces less remote from the sea—such great lakes, a small lake stocked with whitefish is far more important than if stocked with trout. Not only will the greater area of water furnish a greater amount of fish-food (if whitefish are planted not trout) and trout are picky eaters, whereas whitefish are not. Trout devour other species, and even make war upon each other."

With regard to black bass the commissioner writes as follows, and also has some things to say of a fish common in our waters, and known as the darter, rickard, walleyed pike, lake perch, or by its scientific name (Esox lucius):

"Of the stocking of waters with black bass I maintain that while waters in which black bass abound are to be coveted, these fish should not be introduced or planted everywhere. Brook trout without question will inevitably disappear before the now and ravenous marauders, and in most cases the trout are the preferable fish. As a matter of fact a lake will sustain far fewer bass than brook trout, for the reason that the bass are more voracious, and are on the offensive at all times, though especially bellows in June and July when in most localities they are at the height of spawning, or, at least, guarding their nests. Men over the heads of young fish are great wanderers, and will make their way into all the neighboring waters, if driven to it at all possible, passing through very small and shallow channels, when foraging for new feeding grounds."

ANTARCTIC EXPLORATIONS.
Triton, N. Y., March 28.—The sledging parties of the British Antarctic Expedition, whose experiences were reported by the ship Morning, on the latter arrival here Wednesday, engaged in much hazardous work. The dash southward of Cape Scott, of the Discovery, as a result of which he reached latitude 82 degrees, 17 minutes south, was attended by great hardship.

The southernmost land quickly reached the dogs, all to which the party had only a month's provisions when it left the southernmost land, and therefore, it was impossible to continue southward without inviting disaster. The return journey was most trying. The men were on short rations five days and their progress was seriously impeded by ice. Lieutenant Shackleton hurt a blood vessel in one of his lungs and only his pluck pulled him through. The crew of the Discovery are described as having palpably aged, owing to hard living, but they are well and cheerful.

Another party under Lieutenant Barnes was retreating from a sledge journey towards Cape Crozier, when a blizzard struck them ten miles from home. Barnes abandoned his tent and sledges and left the dogs to find their way to the ship. Owing to the blinding snow, Barnes and his companions were unable to see two yards ahead. While they were descending a slope one of the party disappeared and the members of the expedition discovered themselves on the edge of a huge precipice. Another member of the party fell from sheer weariness and was not missed for some time, and he was eventually given up as lost. The man slept under a drift for thirty-six hours and he rejoined the ship unharmed.

The members of another sledge expedition under Lieut. Armitage, which went westward, were away fifty-two days. They attained an altitude of 9,000 feet and descended on an ice slide to a glacier three thousand feet below. The descent was perfect. The sledges at one part of the descent covered 1,200 feet in a single land 12 seconds, their occupants hanging on by straps to the backs of the sledges. Lieut. Armitage fell into a crevasse and swung thirty feet below the surface. But for the fact that he was harnessed to the toboggan he would have fallen 8,000 feet. At Cape Adair, the Discovery found Boeckmann's hut in a good state of preservation.

THE EDMONTON EXHIBITION.
The following is a copy of a letter which is being sent to the interested race horse men in the West by the race course committee of the Edmonton Industrial Exhibition Association: "It is the intention of the Edmonton Industrial Exhibition Association to give $10,000 in prizes at the summer fair to be held on their grounds at Edmonton on the 30th June and 1st and 2nd July next."

At least $4,000 of the above will be awarded in prizes for horse races and I have been instructed to write to you to ask your advice as to how the horses should be divided.

"We are writing each of the horse men in this matter and while we wish to consult them as to what the year should be at the same time purpose to give the public value for their money."

"As you are aware we have no interest whatever in any horse, we want good clean sport and a square deal to all parties. Be good enough to give your kind attention."

W. H. COOPER,
"Clerk of the Course."

OFFERS ON

MONDAY, MAY 4TH, 1903,

200 LOTS - 50 X 100

ON

Kenneth Macdonald Flats

The Finest Alluvial Soil on Earth.

On each Lot enough may be grown to support a family,

The property adjoins Little's brick yard on the South, the Experimental Farm on the North, and overlooks the Saskatchewan on the East.

The opposite bank of the river, rising in natural terraces from the water's edge to an average height of 150 feet, beautifully wooded, affords A PANORAMA OF HARMONY AND DELIGHT.

Edmonton has passed the experimental stage, and will possess in a few years a metropolitan population.

The Railway Question is settled. The Canadian Pacific, Grand Trunk and Canadian Northern are assured quantities.

A fact not generally known substantiates that Edmonton will be a terminus for some years, is that the carrying capacity of the Canadian Pacific exceeds the Oriental and British Columbia trades combined, and the three great roads mentioned will halt before pushing on to the Pacific, thereby making our city of vastly more importance than it would otherwise have been.

Much of the timber is primeval. The principal streets will be boulevarded, and ancient growth furnish overshade.

Maps and schedules of prices open for inspection at W. H. Hooper Company's Office on May 4, 1903.

At the end of this week prices are 1-2 to 3-4 lower than a week ago, and we quote: 1 hard 72-3-1/2, 1 Nor. 71-1-1/2, 2 Nor. 69-1-1/2, 3 Nor. 66, No. 4 wheat 62, but or March delivery, in store. Fort William, Port Arthur or Duluth. For May delivery prices are: 1 hard 73-3-1/2, 1 Nor. 72-1-1/2, 2 Nor. 70, 3 Nor. 67.

Oats—The market is quiet, owing to large receipts and the approach of warm weather. There is a large quantity of oats on track, and it is difficult to dispose of at prices to suit the shipper. The eastern market has weakened also and in Montreal oats which were being held a few weeks ago at 30c or thereabouts are to-day offering at 28c. New arrivals are buying oats freely in the west and this is one of the saving features of the situation. We quote: No. 1 white in carlots on track are worth 31c per bushel; No. 2 white, 28c, and feed grades, 27c. Farmers' loads on the street are bringing 28c, and at country points about 28c. Brokers are asking 25 to 25-1-2 for carlots of 2 white in the country at 30c per bushel. Seed oats are worth 35c per bushel.

Barley—There is a fair demand for barley for shipment and the market has firmed up. The demand is mostly from the east, where there is some export enquiry. Dealers are offering 35c per bushel for May barley, delivery after the opening of navigation. About 36-1-2 is the value for spot in carlots on track.
